Modern Crooks Invade Ancient Castle, Take Priceless Art Treasures

HEVER, Eng., April 22—Scotland Yard today directed a far-flung search for five bandits who, bringing modern gangsterism to the castle where Henry VIII paid court to Anne Boleyn, escaped with 1,500 priceless gems, art treasures and historic relics.

The moated castle where the robbery occurred early Sunday now is the home of Col. J. J. Astor, chairman of the Times Publishing company.

Details of the robbery were radioed to the United States and the continent. Air fields and coastal ports throughout the United States were alerted against the possibility of the criminals trying to escape abroad.

Investigators said they had several valuable clues. They hinted that the use of a Rolls Royce, a dark sedan similar to one of Astor's, might lead to capture of the robbers. Three technicians made a microscopic examination of the tire tracks on the grounds of the 14th century castle.

The criminal record offices of Scotland Yard compared the brief description of the robbers, given by George Scholls, a night watchman at the castle, with the records of international criminals known to specialize in art work.

One police official said the bandits not only had a specialized knowledge of antiquities, but knew the castle plan and location of the treasures. Four men—the fifth stayed at the wheel of the waiting car—covered several rooms on the first and second floors.

Lady Violet Astor, undisturbed by the noise of the robbery and unaware until later that it had occurred, called on her husband last night at Middlesex hospital to give him the details. He has been under observation at the hospital since April 15.

The men broke a small window in the billiard room, then broke open a door to the morning room. There they waited behind a door for Scholls, who came to investigate the noise. They seized him, tied and gagged and blindfolded him, and left him in the butler's pantry.

Scholls broke loose soon after the robbers had completed their hour of pillaging, beginning about 3 a. m.

An officer said the stolen articles were beyond evaluation in terms of money. They included a signet ring of Henry VIII, taken from a cabinet in a corridor outside a room where he slept when visiting the castle to pay court to Anne Boleyn.

Prayer books belonging to Anne Boleyn, Queen Elizabeth and Charles V were taken from a room once occupied by Anne's brother, Viscount Rochford.

The only loot not in the art and treasure class was a $5,000 mink coat belonging to Lady Astor.

NOLAN DUNKLE HIT BY AUTO

Columbus Driver Is Jailed After Car Hits Cyclist On Court Street

Nolan Dunkle, 43, of 374 Walnut street, was in serious condition in Berger hospital, Monday, and Ernest Thomas, 46, Columbus, was in jail, as a result of a traffic mishap at 6:15 p. m. Saturday at the intersection of South Court and Franklin streets.

Police who arrested Thomas on a charge of driving when intoxicated said that in making a left turn from Franklin street onto South Court street Thomas' sedan struck a bicycle ridden by Dunkle and that Thomas failed to stop his car until after he had crossed the intersection of Mound street.

Dunkle was removed to the hospital in Albaugh's ambulance. He suffered a severe hip injury in addition to other hurts. Thomas is scheduled to be arraigned in the court of Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

In the only other traffic accident reported by State Highway Patrolman L. G. Ridenour over the weekend a pig was the victim. The officer reported the porker, weighing about 250 pounds, was struck by an automobile driven by Russell Suttles, Columbus, Saturday night, on Route 104 about three miles south of Route 22. The hog belonged to William Barthelmas.

No arrests were reported either, despite the extra heavy flow of holiday traffic.

Shidehara, Jap Cabinet Resign

PREMIER MAY BE ASKED TO STAY IN OFFICE

New Government Will Be Formed From Leaders In Recent Election

TOKYO, April 22—Japanese Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara and his cabinet resigned today after holding office more than six of the most troubled months in Japan's history.

The resignation was announced officially at 6:30 p. m. (Tokyo time). Shidehara personally was to take the resignations to Emperor Hirohito.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Wataru Narahashi read a statement which said the cabinet had decided to resign in order to help stabilize the political situation, assist in meeting an acute food crisis, unemployment, inflation and other problems facing Japan during the reconstruction.

Narahashi's statement pointed out that the cabinet had completed its mission by conducting fair elections for lower house seats to the diet.

He added, however, that the cabinet had not resigned immediately after the recent elections because of the failure of any one party to win more than a one-

Americans On Reduced Bread Diet

WASHINGTON, April 22—The United States went on short bread rations today.

The cut was offered by the government as part of a world-wide effort to beat off the worst famine threat in nearly 400 years. Its goal was to save another 25,000,000 bushels of wheat for export. It means that during the next 70 critical days, Americans will have at least 25 per cent less bread and other wheat products than they had during the corresponding period of 1945.

The bread cut will be felt immediately because bread is made on a day-to-day basis. The reduction in such packed and stored items as cereal and spaghetti will be felt more gradually.

As a result of the cutback, representatives of the baking industry planned to meet with OPA officials immediately to discuss price increases. They feel bread prices should be raised about a cent a loaf to offset the slash in production.

Meanwhile, the federal trade commission charged that many bakeries were continuing to waste flour by disregarding the government ban on "consignment selling." This is the practice whereby retailers can return unsold bread to bakeries without charge.

In a report released by President Truman, the commission said countless loaves of day-old bread still were being sold as livestock feed or "thrown into the river" as result of the practice.

Nevertheless, the commission estimated that the government prohibition succeeded in saving enough bread last year to give 10 loaves each to 46,467,000 persons. The savings could have been still greater, it said, if all bakeries cooperated.

The commission called on bakery officials, drivers and retailers to wipe out the practice to prevent needless waste in the current food emergency. It also suggested

GEORGE SLAGER IS FOUND DEAD

Farmer Apparently Suffered Heart Attack And Fell From Hay Mow

Lifeless body of George Slager, 79, was found at 8 a. m. Monday in a barn at his farm home on the Williamsport - Chillicothe pike, south of Williamsport.

Mr. Slager apparently had suffered a heart attack and fell from a hay mow on a binder. His nose was cut by the fall. The body was discovered by his sister with whom he lived. The body was removed to the Ware funeral home at Chillicothe, after it had been viewed by Dr. George Heffner, Circleville, as acting coroner of Pickaway county, who was accompanied to the scene by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff. Dr. Heffner indicated that the verdict will be death from natural causes.

Following the finding of the body Dr. R. E. Oliver, coroner of Ross county, was summoned. Although the farmhouse is in Ross county the barn is in Pickaway county and for that reason Dr. Oliver notified Sheriff Charles Radcliff in Circleville.

'SHOOTING STAR' SETS NEW MARK IN SPEED TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 22—An Army jet-propelled P-80 "Shooting Star" flew from New York to Washington yesterday in 29 minutes and 15 seconds, beating by nearly half an hour the previous record for the 220 miles.

Capt. Martin L. Smith of Kidder, Mo., and Wright Field, O., pilot of the propellerless fighter plane, took off from New York's LaGuardia field at 3:59 p. m. (EST) and landed at Bolling Army air field here at 4:28:15. This average speed was about 480 miles an hour.

Smith sliced 29 minutes and 23 seconds from the present official record of 58 minutes and 38 seconds set by Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky on May 18, 1938 in a stripped-down, gasoline-motored craft.

De Seversky's record was beaten unofficially last month when a TWA Constellation made the New York-Washington flight in 50 minutes flat.

Smith said his indicated top speed was 530 miles an hour.

ARMY MOVES TO HOLD UP BILL

Leaders Fear Election Year Defeat Of Universal Training Plans

WASHINGTON, April 22—The Army, fearful that an election-year vote would mean defeat, has asked congress to forget about universal military training until next year, it was learned today.

House members, who asked that their names be withheld, said a decision to delay action until after the November elections was reached at a recent meeting of war department officials and house members.

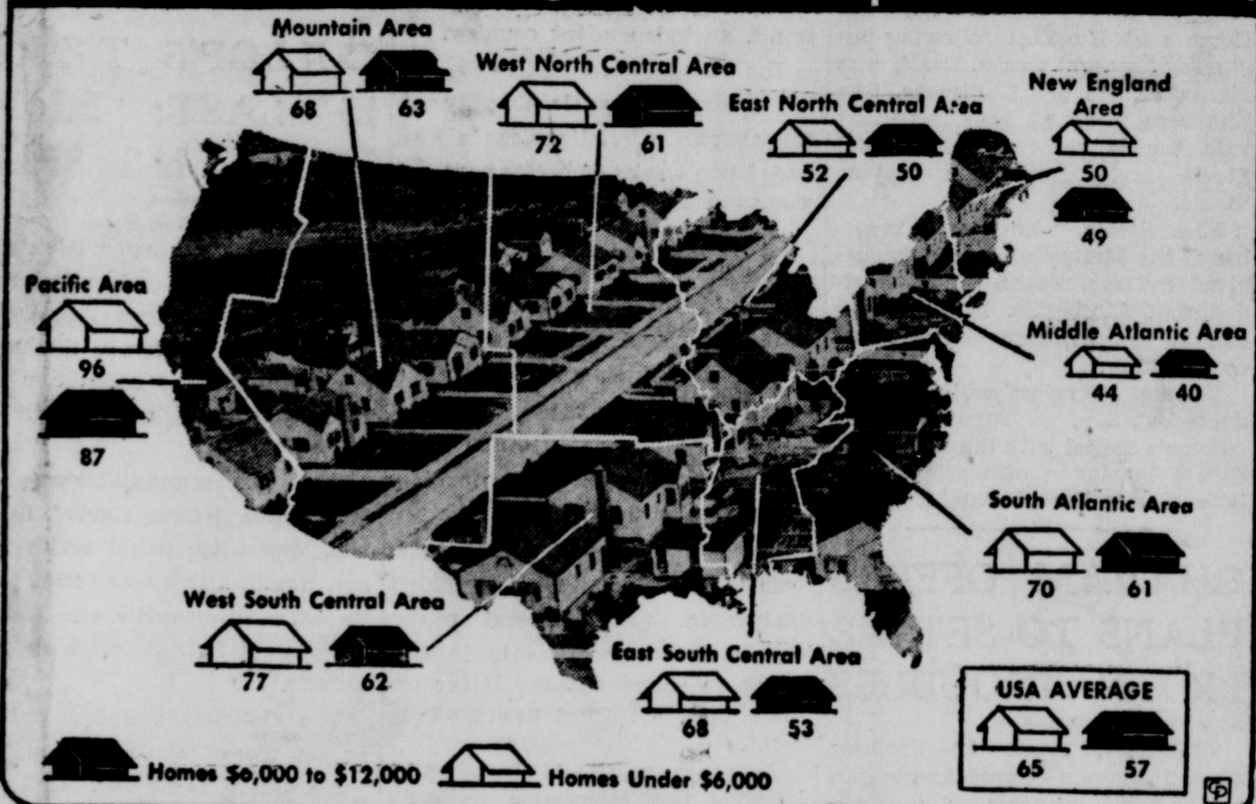

Those at the meeting included Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the house military affairs committee, and Reps. R. Ewing Thomas, D., Tex., Walter G. Andrews, R., N. Y., and James W. Wadsworth, R., N. Y.

Thomas and Andrews are high ranking members of the military affairs committee, and Wadsworth is a leading exponent of universal training.

Committee members said the army proposed postponing consideration of its long-advocated training program to keep it from becoming an election issue. Peace-time training, like the draft, is not popular with the public. The war department was said to fear a pre-election vote would mean sure defeat.

There was some speculation that the Army also figured that a delay might strengthen chances of getting more satisfactory draft extension. The house voted a nine-month extension but suspended all inductions for the first five—a plan which the administration calls unworkable. The issue is now before the senate.

Bowles Claims Public Wants OPA Extended

WASHINGTON, April 22—Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles predicted today that congress would heed the "stream of telegrams and letters" from the public and extend OPA without crippling amendments.

He said the "everyday people" of America were alarmed at the spectre of higher prices held out in the amendment-riddled extension bill passed by the house. But he expressed confidence that congress would ultimately reject all the "destructive" amendments and give OPA an effective new lease on life.

"I have seen enough wires, letters and newspaper editorials and I have heard enough radio comment to convince me that during the next few weeks we will have the greatest demonstration of democracy in action this country has ever seen," he said in a statement.

"The out-and-out profiteers who are licking their chops in an anticipation of an orgy of speculative gains," Bowles declared, "should know now that the American people have just begun to fight."

His statement was issued as the senate banking committee continued hearings on an administration bill to extend OPA another year in its present form. Industry opponents to the bill were called as witnesses.

Administration leaders in the senate were not as confident as Bowles that the house bill, which virtually emasculates OPA, would be a toss-up.

One informal poll showed 36 senators against the loan, 34 in favor and 17 still in doubt. A Republican poll of GOP senators indicated 24 votes against the loan with 16 members favoring its approval. Democratic leaders admitted they need support from about one-half of their Republican colleagues for passage.

Some members predicted privately that if debate continues another two weeks, the loan will be either flatly rejected or shelved to expedite action on such pressing domestic issues as continuation of the OPA, selective service extension and the Army-Navy merger plan. Debate is now in its fourth day.

AIR PACT WITH RUSSIA SOUGHT

U. S. Plans To Negotiate With Soviets For Use Of Air Fields

WASHINGTON, April 22—The United States soon will propose to Russia the negotiation of a commercial aviation agreement, it was learned today.

The U. S. will seek landing rights at Leningrad and Moscow. Russia's commercial planes, in return, could fly to one or more U. S. cities.

A high official told the United Press that the state department would bring up the question when discussions begin on Russia's request for a $1,000,000,000 loan. These are proposed for May or during the Summer.

The United States will not seek civil air rights as a concession in connection with the loan, but it is considered significant that the state department intends to seek parallel negotiations.

This official said the U. S. proposal to Russia would be fashioned after the Anglo-American aviation agreement. That pact was concluded in Bermuda in January and has since been attacked by the senate commerce committee on the grounds it should have been a treaty.

The United States will ask Russia to grant this country the right to fly as many schedules as the traffic will bear to the Soviet capital. It will also ask for the "fifth freedom of the air"—the right to carry traffic between two foreign countries.

DEATH CLAIMS LORD KEYNES, BRITISH LEADER

LONDON, April 22—John Maynard Lord Keynes, 62, a director of the Bank of England and one of the world's leading economists, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home in Tilton Firie, Sussex.

Lord Keynes returned to England two weeks ago from the international monetary conference at Savannah, Ga. Friends said he had been under a "great deal of mental strain," and that the trip from Southampton on a crowded train had left him ill. His physicians had ordered a complete rest.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, when informed of Lord Keynes' death, said, "the country loses in him its most brilliant economist and a man of distinction in many and varied fields of activity. His services to the state as an adviser on economics and financial matters and as a negotiator were invaluable. I lost in him a personal friend of great charm."

In addition to his accomplishments as an economist, Lord Keynes was noted as an historian and a patron of the arts. He also was a collector of rare books. Agriculturalists knew him as a successful farmer and an expert on the development of grass feeds.

American Delegate Talks To Communists And Chiang In Peace Move

CHUNGKING, April 22—Gen. George C. Marshall held a long conference with Communist Gen. Chou En Lai today and arranged to meet Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek immediately afterward in a strenuous bid to end the Chinese civil strife.

Marshall took notes for two hours and a half while Gen. Chou outlined the Communist position in Manchuria. He made no comment.

The Communists feel themselves in a strong position, for they hold Changchun, the capital of Manchuria, and will win the northern metropolis of Harbin by default when the Russians evacuate it on Thursday. There are no government troops in position to resist Communist troops surrounding the city.

Marshall asked Gen. Chou to investigate Communist claims that American airplanes had strafed the Communist army at Szepingkai.

U. S. Army and Marine Corps officers are investigating the claim, for which there has been no confirmation from any source.

The Communists were reported seeking an unconditional cease fire agreement while the conflict is going in their favor. Today's meeting was Marshall's first with Gen. Chou since he returned from Washington.

American authorities announced after an investigation that there had been no American planes in the Szepingkai area and that no American planes are missing. Marshall requested that the Communist

TRUMAN AT SEA TO SEE 'GAMES'

President Watches Ships, Planes In Maneuvers Used In Fighting

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN AT SEA, April 22—President Truman was piped aboard the mighty carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt today for a first hand review of the part naval planes played in sweeping the Pacific clean of Jap warships.

Shortly after breakfast, Mr. Truman and his party were transferred in a launch from the presidential yacht Williamsburg to the FDR in Hampton Roads, Va.

The FDR and an accompanying flattop, the Princeton, both gave the President a 21-gun salute. President Truman climbed briskly up the large carrier's gangplank while sideboys blew their shrill boatswain's pipes. He was greeted on the hangar deck by Adm. Mitscher, commander of the Eighth fleet and the special task force, the captain of the ship and other high ranking officers aboard. Other officers and enlisted men of the ship's complement were drawn up at attention on the vast hangar deck.

The two carriers pulled up anchor soon after the President went aboard the FDR and set out for the Atlantic where they will continue their operations.

Lord Keynes returned to England two weeks ago from the international monetary conference at Savannah, Ga. Friends said he had been under a "great deal of mental strain," and that the trip from Southampton on a crowded train had left him ill. His physicians had ordered a complete rest.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, when informed of Lord Keynes' death, said, "the country loses in him its most brilliant economist and a man of distinction in many varied fields of activity. His services to the state as an adviser on economics and financial matters and as a negotiator were invaluable. I lost in him a personal friend of great charm."

In addition to his accomplishments as an economist, Lord Keynes was noted as an historian and a patron of the arts. He also was a collector of rare books. Agriculturalists knew him as a successful farmer and an expert on the development of grass feeds.

American Delegate Talks To Communists And Chiang In Peace Move

CHUNGKING, April 22—Gen. George C. Marshall held a long conference with Communist Gen. Chou En Lai today and arranged to meet Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek immediately afterward in a strenuous bid to end the Chinese civil strife.

Marshall took notes for two hours and a half while Gen. Chou outlined the Communist position in Manchuria. He made no comment.

The Communists feel themselves in a strong position, for they hold Changchun, the capital of Manchuria, and will win the northern metropolis of Harbin by default when the Russians evacuate it on Thursday. There are no government troops in position to resist Communist troops surrounding the city.

Marshall asked Gen. Chou to investigate Communist claims that American airplanes had strafed the Communist army at Sze-ping-kai.

kal, and that one plane containing the body of an American flier had been shot down. Gen. Chou said he knew only what he had read in the Communist Daily newspaper but had asked Yanan headquarters for details.

No Confirmation
U. S. Army and Marine Corps officers are investigating the claim, for which there has been no confirmation from any source.

The Communists were reported seeking an unconditional cease fire agreement while the conflict is going in their favor. Today's meeting was Marshall's first with Gen. Chou since he returned from Washington.

American authorities announced after an investigation that there had been no American planes in the Sze-ping-kai area and that no American planes are missing. Marshall requested that the Communist

TRUMAN AT SEA TO SEE 'GAMES'

President Watches Ships, Planes In Maneuvers Used In Fighting

AT SEA, April 22—President Truman was piped aboard the mighty carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt today for a first hand review of the part naval planes played in sweeping the Pacific clean of Jap warships.

Shortly after breakfast, Mr. Truman and his party were transferred in a launch from the presidential yacht Williamsburg to the FDR in Hampton Roads, Va.

The FDR and an accompanying flattop, the Princeton, both gave the President a 21-gun salute. President Truman climbed briskly up the large carrier's gangplank while sideboys blew their shrill boatswain's pipes. He was greeted on the hangar deck by Adm. Mitscher, commander of the Eighth fleet and the special task force, the captain of the ship and other high ranking officers aboard. Other officers and enlisted men of the ship's complement were drawn up at attention on the vast hangar deck.

The two carriers pulled up anchor soon after the President went aboard the FDR and set out for the Atlantic where they will continue their operations.

Study Situation

The World Daily News said there were indications that the government is reconsidering the Manchurian problem in a new light as a result of the revelation of Communist strength there.

The newspaper said that Nationalist troops may not try to recapture Changchun or take over Harbin.

The capture of Changchun by the Communists was said to have made the situation more complicated and serious but it was believed that the government would seek a peaceful settlement through Marshall.

Cannot Refuse

A Communist spokesman said the government was in no position to refuse the Communist demands. The Communists have captured Changchun. They virtually surround Harbin, to the north of Changchun, and will move in when the Russians evacuate the city. He said Kirin also was surrounded by the Communists, with no government troops to oppose them. He added that the Communists might take over Dairen if the Russians evacuate that port.

Many To Move

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government was preparing, meanwhile, to move its headquarters from Chungking to Nanking. Newspapers said the government will complete its move by May 1.

A government spokesman said the government troops hold Mukden, Anshan, Fushin and all other towns along the Mukden-Changchun railroad as far north as Szepingka. Near Szepingka the Communists are offering heavy resistance to the Nationalist new first army trying to advance on Changchun.

There was no confirmation from any source of Communist claims that American planes strafed the Communist army near Szepingka. A dispatch from Communist headquarters asserted that an American plane had been shot down there on April 19 and contained the body of an American soldier.

Lt. Gen. Alvin C. Gillem, Jr., American representative in truce negotiations, said that no official Communist protest had been received. He asked U. S. air force headquarters for a detailed check of activities for the past week to see if any American plane was missing.

Communist anti-American propaganda has been increasing for the past week and strongly resembles a similar campaign last Fall.

The Communist daily newspapers in Chungking said the Chinese situation had reached its extreme crisis and claimed that world peace will be menaced if the United States resumes the "anti-Soviet, anti-Communist" policies of Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley.

The newspaper urged the United States to state its policy clearly and show that it rejects Hurley's policies, as carried out when he was U. S. envoy to Chungking.

GHAVAM OFFERS PLANS TO SETTLE IRAN TROUBLES

TEHRAN, April 22—Premier Ahmed Ghavam offered Azerbaijan a five-point program of increased autonomy today, but insisted that the central government must control the army and the governor-general post.

Previous indications from Tabriz were that the unrecognized autonomous regime now controlling Azerbaijan would reject any Tehran offer which keeps control of the key military and political posts under the central government.

Ghavam's offer was the first concrete proposal put forward as a basis of settling the Azerbaijan problem. It was prefaced by his statement that "from the time the present government took over the government, no efforts have been spared to attend to the true needs of our Azerbaijan blood brethren."

Reports from the Azerbaijan and Kurdish frontiers indicated there have been clashes between small parties of the opposing factions. The Tehran government officially denied reports of serious clashes.

SICK FISH NOW BEING CURED BY SULFA DRUGS

WASHINGTON, April 22—Even fish are now being treated with sulfa drugs.

The U. S. fish and wildlife service reported today that furunculosis, most dread disease of trout hatcheries, has yielded to treatment with sulfamerazine. The experiments are continuing.

Bacteria of the disease, the service explained, enter the blood stream of the fish and cause disintegration of the tissue of vital organs as a result in "boils" from which the disease gets its name. In the past, the only known way to attack the disease in an infected hatchery has been destruction of the diseased fish.

PREMIER MAY BE ASKED TO STAY IN OFFICE

The cabinet announcement was delayed an hour and a half because of the absence of foreign minister Shigeru Yoshida who reportedly went to supreme commander Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters. It was reported reliably he did not see MacArthur.

A cabinet source said Yoshida had come to see the emperor but it was believed more probable that he sought MacArthur's permission for the resignation since Japan is not an independent country.

The resignation followed an emergency session late today at Shidehara's official residence and ended two weeks of hectic political maneuvering that followed the elections.

There was widespread speculation in Japanese informed quarters that Emperor Hirohito would accept the cabinet resignation but that he would ask the aging prime minister to remain in office until the confused political situation could be clarified further.

Some forces believed Shidehara would meet shortly with Ichiro Hatoyama, whose liberal party won a majority of seats in the house to sound out the latter on his ability to form a new government.

Japanese political circles felt, however, that Hatoyama would be unwilling to attempt the formation of a cabinet in view of the recent disclosure he failed to report to allied headquarters that he had written a book, entitled "Face of the World," said mild tribute to Hitler and Mussolini.

In the event Hatoyama is unwilling to form a new cabinet, Shidehara was expected to try to put together a coalition government as head of the progressive party.

that congress might look into the possibility of drafting legislation to make the prohibition permanent. The government was busy with other programs to increase food shipments to starving areas.

It has offered farmers a 30 cent-a-bushel bonus in an attempt to lure 125,000,000 bushels of wheat an 50,000,000 bushels of corn out of farm storage bins by May 25.

President Truman has renewed his suggestion that Americans save even more food by going on a "starvation" diet two days a week, when they would eat no more than people in the hunger areas.

CULLOP'S TEAM IS LAST; BIRDS, INDIANS SPLIT

By United Press
Milwaukee Manager Nick Cullop wondered today how to revive his wilted American Association defending champions as the Brewers slumbered in unfamiliar last place with a single victory in five games played.

While the league titlist was having trouble getting started, Louisville, the little world series winner, was in a three-way first place fight with Minneapolis and Indianapolis with four victories and two defeats.

The Colonels swept a pair of games from Toledo, 4-3 and 6-1, yesterday at Louisville. Minneapolis dropped the first game with Milwaukee, 7-5, and won the nightcap, 8-0. In the other bargain bills, St. Paul split with Kansas City, winning 8-4 and losing 4-1.

Columbus and Indianapolis divided two, Columbus taking the first 5-4 and Indianapolis the second 12-1.

Columbus bunched four runs in the third inning of the opener after getting one in the first to clinch a 5-4 victory at Indianapolis. Butch Nieman homered for the Indians and Jack Creel was the winning pitcher for the Red Birds. Al Hazel held the Red Birds to five hits in the lopsided 12-1 nightcap in which the Indians pounded out 15 hits. Joe Bestudis collected four hits and Sibby Sisti homered for Indianapolis.

duct maneuvers off the eastern seaboard for two days.

The maneuvers were designed to give President Truman a close-up show of how carrier planes turned back Japanese fleets in the historic naval battles of Midway, the Coral Sea and the Philippines.

The Navy's fast fighters, dive bombers and torpedo planes were expected to simulate combat operations as near as possible in the maneuvers while Mr. Truman watches from the admiral's bridge on the carrier's island.

The President also probably will have an opportunity to see how it feels to be on a target ship when scores of planes attack it. A mock attack by planes on its own ship usually constitutes one phase of such carrier maneuvers.

Mr. Truman was taking his first extended vacation since he entered the White House. He spent the night aboard the Williamsburg after boarding her yesterday in Washington and proceeding to Hampton Roads.

POISON PLOT AGAINST NAZIS IS DISCLOSED

NUERNBERG, April 22—Army officials reported today that they had uncovered evidence of a plot of mysterious origin to poison all of about 11,000 Nazi SS prisoners at a camp near here with arsenic. The poison was applied to bread in a bakery supplying the camp. Four full arsenic bottles and two empty ones were discovered under the bakery floor.

The poison actually affected more than 2,000 German prisoners of war but none died. No evidence has been uncovered as to who may have been behind the mass poisoning effort.

Altogether 2,283 German prisoners, most of them former members of Adolf Hitler's elite guard, were poisoned. Nearly 2,000 of them were in a serious condition for several days last week.

Experiments have been carried on by the British railways in constructing locomotives based on jet-propulsion principles, which will greatly facilitate railroad travel.

The guinea pig may begin to breed at two months of age, and there may be four to 12 in a litter.

When kerosene with which K. Chaffin was starting a fire in a stove exploded, at 7:15 p. m. Sunday, Chaffin and his wife escaped injury but the resultant fire badly damaged the frame house and contents located on the Walnut Creek pike near Circleville.

The flames were battled by firemen from Circleville and Ashville. Fire Chief Talmer Wise estimated the loss at $600. He said the property is owned by Homer Quillin.

A lighted cigarette that had been left on a seat cushion ignited a sedan parked at Main and Court streets at 7:10 p. m. Sunday, according to Chief Wise, who estimated the damage at $15. Firemen who extinguished the blaze were unable to ascertain the identity of the car's owner.

The magazine Steel said that the coal strike would force large producers who have not yet materially reduced production to make curtailments soon. Producers which already have been affected may have to make still further reductions within a week or two, the magazine said.

Meanwhile, thousands of workers in the automobile industry faced the threat of unemployment if steel stocks are depleted with a continuation of the coal strike. Railroad coal stocks on a half dozen major roads were reported becoming critical.

Americans On Reduced Bread Diet

that congress might look into the possibility of drafting legislation to make the prohibition permanent.

The government was busy with other programs to increase food shipments to starving areas.

It has offered farmers a 30 cent-a-bushel bonus in an attempt to lure 125,000,000 bushels of wheat an 50,000,000 bushels of corn out of farm storage bins by May 25.

President Truman has renewed his suggestion that Americans save even more food by going on a "starvation" diet two days a week, when they would eat no more than people in the hunger areas.

CULLOP'S TEAM IS LAST; BIRDS, INDIANS SPLIT

By United Press
Milwaukee Manager Nick Cullop wondered today how to revive his wilted American Association defending champions as the Brewers slumbered in unfamiliar last place with a single victory in five games played.

While the league titlist was having trouble getting started, Louisville, the little world series winner, was in a three-way first place tie with Minneapolis and Indianapolis with four victories and two defeats.

The Colonels swept a pair of games from Toledo, 4-3 and 6-1, yesterday at Louisville. Minneapolis dropped the first game with Milwaukee, 7-5, and won the nightcap, 8-0. In the other bargain bills, St. Paul split with Kansas City, winning 8-4 and losing 4-1. Columbus and Indianapolis divided two, Columbus taking the first 5-4 and Indianapolis the second 12-1.

Columbus bunched four runs in the third inning of the opener after getting one in the first to clinch a 5-4 victory at Indianapolis. Butch Nieman homered for the Indians and Jack Creel was the winning pitcher for the Red Birds. Al Hazel held the Red Birds to five hits in the lopsided 12-1 nightcap in which the Indians pounded out 15 hits. Joe Beaudix collected four hits and Sibby Sisti homered for Indianapolis.

TRUMAN AT SEA TO SEE 'GAMES'

duct maneuvers off the eastern seaboard for two days.

The maneuvers were designed to give President Truman a close-up show of how carrier planes turned back Japanese fleets in the historic naval battles of Midway, the Coral Sea and the Philippines.

The Navy's fast fighters, dive bombers and torpedo planes were expected to simulate combat operations as near as possible in the maneuvers while Mr. Truman watches from the admiral's bridge on the carrier's island.

The President also probably will have an opportunity to see how it feels to be on a target ship when scores of planes attack it. A mock attack by planes on its own ship usually constitutes one phase of such carrier maneuvers.

Mr. Truman was taking his first extended vacation since he entered the White House. He spent the night aboard the Williamsburg after boarding her yesterday in Washington and proceeding to Hampton Roads.

POISON PLOT AGAINST NAZIS IS DISCLOSED

NUERNBERG, April 22—Army officials reported today that they had uncovered evidence of a plot of mysterious origin to poison all of about 11,000 Nazi SS prisoners at a camp near here with arsenic.

The poison was applied to bread in a bakery supplying the camp. Four full arsenic bottles and two empty ones were discovered under the bakery floor.

The poison actually affected more than 2,000 German prisoners of war but none died. No evidence has been uncovered as to who may have been behind the mass poisoning effort.

Altogether 2,283 German prisoners, most of them former members of Adolf Hitler's elite guard, were poisoned. Nearly 2,000 of them were in a serious condition for several days last week.

Experiments have been carried on by the British railways in constructing locomotives based on jet-propulsion principles, which will greatly facilitate railroad travel.

The guinea pig may begin to breed at two months of age, and there may be four to 12 in a litter.

"Very Wonderful"

HERE'S THAT MAN whom Movie Actress Lana Turner described to Hollywood reporters as "tall, handsome, very wonderful, and just what I want." He is Charles F. Jaeger, radio network executive, who was introduced to the blonde, twice-married actress in New York recently after her return from a South American tour. However, "Mr. Jaeger and I have no definite plans for marriage," Lana said. (International)

FIRE DAMAGES WALNUT CREEK PIKE RESIDENCE

When kerosene with which K. Chaffin was starting a fire in a stove exploded, at 7:15 p. m. Sunday, Chaffin and his wife escaped injury but the resultant fire badly damaged the frame house and contents located on the Walnut Creek pike near Circleville.

The flames were battled by firemen from Circleville and Ashville. Fire Chief Talmer Wise estimated the loss at $600. He said the property is owned by Homer Quillin.

A lighted cigarette that had been left on a seat cushion ignited a sedan parked at Main and Court streets at 7:10 p. m. Sunday, according to Chief Wise, who estimated the damage at $15. Firemen who extinguished the blaze were unable to ascertain the identity of the car's owner.

STEEL MAKING TO BE REDUCED

ping were tied up by pickets who surrounded the Alaska steamship company's docks.

The magazine Steel said that the coal strike would force large producers who have not yet materially reduced production to make curtailments soon. Producers which already have been affected may have to make still further reductions within a week or two, the magazine said.

Meanwhile, thousands of workers in the automobile industry faced the threat of unemployment if steel stocks are depleted with a continuation of the coal strike. Railroad coal stocks on a half dozen major roads were reported becoming critical.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Swollenbach, who conferred with President Truman and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, (AFL), Saturday, planned to meet with mine operators this week. He said he would ask both union and company representatives to resume negotiations.

Papermakers Score Six Runs
In First Inning And Go
On To 10-5 Victory

After a nightmarish first inning, Asheville settled down and played good ball at Chillicothe Sunday, but it was too late and the Mead Papermakers won 10-5 in the first game of the new South Central Ohio league.

In other opening day games Milledgeville trounced Greenfield 14-2; Jamestown margined Washington 9-6, and in the best-played game of the day Jeffersonville edged Sabina 2-1.

Mead scored six runs in the first inning as the Papermakers drove Forquer to the showers and continued the barrage against Black. They got only one hit off Forquer and got seven more the rest of the game off Black.

Asheville could do little with the offerings of Chuck Brown, Mead fireball hurler, collecting only one hit but taking advantage of some Mead gifts to score five times during the six innings Brown worked. Pollard, a left-hander finished the game, allowing three hits but no runs.

A snap throw from Catcher Overly to Firstbaseman Stout picking a runner off first base for the third out nipped an Asheville rally that might have tied the score.

Asheville players made five errors in the game and Mead had three. Longest hit of the day was a three-base clout by Gib Allen, starting catcher for Mead.

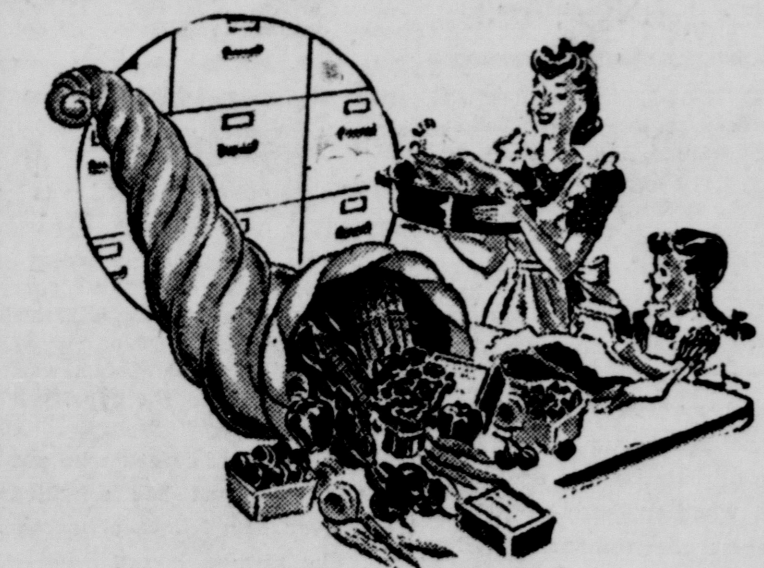

Next Sunday Asheville opens its home season with Sabina the guest team.

STRATEGY PAYS OFF FOR O'NEILL IS COMPLETING OPENER PLANS

Feller Beaten By Tigers In
11 Innings; Reds Surprise
With Twin Victory

NEW YORK, April 22—Sound strategy and the gambler's luck that made it work, put baseball's smiling Irishman, Manager Steve O'Neill of the Detroit Tigers in even a more jovial mood than usual today.

O'Neill borrowed an old World Series trick to sweep an important two game series with the Cleveland Indians by refusing to play his ace against an ace.

He caused a few raised eyebrows last week when he said that he wasn't going to use Hal Newhouse when Bob Feller pitched for the Indians. That made it sound as if he thought Feller was a better pitcher than his left handed artist who won 54 games in the past two seasons.

"There isn't any sense in sending your best man against Feller when you have more chance to win with him in another spot," he said.

That was no admission that he thought Feller the better man, it was simply his idea of shooting for one fairly certain victory and gambling for two. And it worked. The tough part, of course, was in beating Feller, but the Tigers did it in 11 innings yesterday, 3 to 2, after Newhouse won the Saturday game. Eddie Mayo's clutch double scored Eddie Lake with the run that beat Feller after Bullet Bob had held Detroit to five hits and struck out 10 up to that time.

The victory moved Detroit to within half a game of the leading Boston Red Sox, who were beaten for the first time yesterday in splitting a double header with the visiting Philadelphia Athletics.

Ted Williams singled home the winning run for a 12 to 11 victory in 10 innings in the opener, after the slugging Red Sox made six runs, three on George Metkovich's homer to tie the score in the ninth. Bobo Newsom pitched a three-hit, 3 to 0 shutout to win the abbreviated five-inning second game, treating the Boston sluggers the same way he did the Yankees in beating them on three hits in his first start. Jack Wallassa, Sam Chapman, and George McQuinn hit first game homers for the Athletics.

Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler's sixth pitching gave him his second straight victory for the Yankees, 6 to 1 over Washington at New York. Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller hit Yankee homers and Oscar Grimes batted in two runs with long flies to give Chandler all the support he needed.

The St. Louis Browns, economizing on base hits, won two games from Chicago on four safe blows in each, topping 46-year-old Ted Lyons in the opener, 2 to 1, and edging Lefty Thornton Lee and Frank Papias in the second game, 4 to 2.

Brooklyn swept its three-game series with the Giants at Ebbets field, winning the finale, 2 to 1 behind rookie left-hander Joe Hatton.

Errors gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 6 victory over the Cubs at Chicago.

Field Being Put In Shape
For First Game; Final
Meeting Scheduled

Final plans for the 1946 soft ball season will be made at a meeting next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Herald office.

League officials, softball commissioners, managers sponsors and umpires will attend the meeting. The following umpires are to be present: Cummings Robinson, John Anderson, Gerald Hanley, Art Steele, John Jenkins and Ray "Hominy" Anderson.

A game between Kiwanis and Rotary teams will open the season next Monday at 7:30 p. m. Following this contest Mayor Ben Gordon will pitch the first ball and Esmeralda and Williamsport teams will take the field for the first league game.

The diamond is in shape for the opener. Bleachers are being erected and light poles being placed.

Sunday Stansbury-Stout and Blue Ribbon played a practice game with Blue Ribbon winning. Several players from other teams practiced during the day.

Friday night Isaly's and Richards Implement will play a practice game.

their bad luck, defeated the Pirates in two games at Pittsburgh, 8 to 2 and 4 to 3, behind solid pitching by Ed Heusser and Joe Beggs. Shortstop Eddie Miller drove in five runs in the opener with a homer and double. The Reds wiped out a 3 to 0 deficit to win the second game in which Jim Russell hit a two-run Pirate homer. The Reds previously had dropped four games, all close, in which bad breaks decided things.

The Philadelphia Phils also won for the first time, defeating the visiting Braves, 3 to 1 after Boston won the opener, 3 to 2 in 11 innings.

THIRTY ROUNDS OF BOXING IS PROMISED FANS

Thirty rounds of boxing will be presented at Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

The show, with part of the proceeds going to the Pickaway county cancer fund drive, will feature Bob Arthur, 228 pounds, and Billy Banks, 199. Two six round bouts will feature Tiger Wills and Al Reeves and Battling Schwartz and Jake Felthelm. Two four-round bouts will complete the card.

Banks, who has been fighting for two years in and out of the Army, has proved to be one of the most promising boxers produced in Cincinnati. He has a string of 41 straight wins and hopes to use Arthur, who claims the Ohio heavyweight championship, as a stepping stone to big time.

STRATEGY PAYS OFF FOR O'NEILL

Feller Beaten By Tigers In
11 Innings; Reds Surprise
With Twin Victory

NEW YORK, April 22—Sound strategy and the gambler's luck that made it work, put baseball's smiling Irishman, Manager Steve O'Neill of the Detroit Tigers in even a more jovial mood than usual today.

O'Neill borrowed an old World Series trick to sweep an important two game series with the Cleveland Indians by refusing to play his ace against an ace.

He caused a few raised eyebrows last week when he said that he wasn't going to use Hal Newhouse-Shadley, a left-hander, against the Indians. That made it sound as if he thought Feller was a better pitcher than his left handed artist who won 54 games in the past two seasons.

"There isn't any sense in sending your best man against Feller when you have more chance to win with him in another spot," he said.

That was no admission that he thought Feller the better man, it was simply his idea of shooting for one fairly certain victory and gambling for two. And it worked. The tough part, of course, was in beating Feller, but the Tigers did it in 11 innings yesterday, 3 to 2, after Newhouse won the Saturday game. Eddie Mayo's clutch double scored Eddie Lake with the run that beat Feller after Bullet Bob had held Detroit to five hits and struck out 10 up to that time.

The victory moved Detroit to within half a game of the leading Boston Red Sox, who were beaten for the first time yesterday in splitting a double header with the visiting Philadelphia Athletics.

Ted Williams singled home the winning run for a 12 to 11 victory in 10 innings in the opener, after the slugging Red Sox made six runs, three on George Metkovich's homer to tie the score in the ninth.

Bobo Newsom pitched a three-hit, 3 to 0 shutout to win the abbreviated five-inning second game, treating the Boston sluggers the same way he did the Yankees in beating them on three hits in his first start. Jack Wallaces, Sam Chapman, and George McQuinn hit first game homers for the Athletics.

Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler's sixth pitching gave him his second straight victory for the Yankees, 6 to 1 over Washington at New York. Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller hit Yankee homers and Oscar Grimes batted in two runs with long flies to give Chandler all the support he needed.

The St. Louis Browns, economizing on base hits, won two games from Chicago on four safe blows in each, topping 46-year-old Ted Lyons in the opener, 2 to 1, and edging Lefty Thornton Lee and Frank Papias in the second game, 4 to 2.

Brooklyn swept its three-game series with the Giants at Ebbets field, winning the finale, 2 to 1 behind rookie left-hander Joe Hatton.

Errors gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 6 victory over the Cubs at Chicago.

SOFTBALL LOOP IS COMPLETING OPENER PLANS

Field Being Put In Shape
For First Game; Final
Meeting Scheduled

Final plans for the 1946 soft ball season will be made at a meeting next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Herald office.

League officials, softball commissioners, managers sponsors and umpires will attend the meeting. The following umpires are to be present: Cummings Robinson, John Anderson, Gerald Hanley, Art Steele, John Jenkins and Ray "Hominy" Anderson.

A game between Kiwanis and Rotary teams will open the season next Monday at 7:30 p. m. Following this contest Mayor Ben Gordon will pitch the first ball and Esmeralda and Williamsport teams will take the field for the first league game.

The diamond is in shape for the opener. Bleachers are being erected and light poles being placed. Sunday Stansbury-Stout and Blue Ribbon played a practice game with Blue Ribbon winning. Several players from other teams practiced during the day. Friday night Isaly's and Richards Implement will play a practice game.

their bad luck, defeated the Pirates in two games at Pittsburgh, 8 to 2 and 4 to 3, behind solid pitching by Ed Heusser and Joe Beggs. Shortstop Eddie Miller drove in five runs in the opener with a homer and double. The Reds wiped out a 3 to 0 deficit to win the second game in which Jim Russell hit a two-run Pirate homer.

The Reds previously had dropped four games, all close, in which bad breaks decided things.

The Philadelphia Phils also won for the first time, defeating the visiting Braves, 3 to 1 after Boston won the opener, 3 to 2 in 11 innings.

Brooklyn swept its three-game series with the Giants at Ebbets field, winning the finale, 2 to 1 behind rookie left-hander Joe Hatton.

THIRTY ROUNDS OF BOXING IS PROMISED FANS

Thirty rounds of boxing will be presented at Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

The show, with part of the proceeds going to the Pickaway county cancer fund drive, will feature Bob Arthur, 228 pounds, and Billy Banks, 199. Two six round bouts will feature Tiger Wills and Al Reeves and Battling Schwartz and Jake Felthelm. Two four-round bouts will complete the card.

Banks, who has been fighting for two years in and out of the Army, has proved to be one of the most promising boxers produced in Cincinnati. He has a string of 41 straight wins and hopes to use Arthur, who claims the Ohio heavyweight championship, as a stepping stone to big time.

Prefabricated railway stations are being tested on the British railways, which are readily portable and quickly erected, and are yet strong enough to withstand the vibration of passing trains.

HISTORIC STONE

HOW long should stolen property be held to make the taker's title valid? This question must have occurred to good Scots whenever British kings have been crowned, for at the ceremony the new king sits on the Stone of Destiny on which the ancient Scottish kings were crowned.

This stone, the Stone of Scone, is said to have been the pillow on which Jacob laid his head when he had his vision of the angels. However, it got to Scotland, it was used for royal coronations as far back as history goes. In 846 it was transferred to Scone, where it remained 450 years. In 1296 Edward I of England, who came near conquering all Scotland, carried off the stone. Though the Scots recovered their independence, they never did get the stone back. It has been held in England ever since, except during the recent war, when its whereabouts were unknown. Its emergence from its wartime hiding-place has just been announced, and the record of its hiding has been deposited in the Canadian national archives.

The English have one justification, and the Scots one consolation, for its forcible transfer to English soil. In 1603 the royal houses of the two countries were merged, and in 1707 complete union was established. The Scots can therefore say that it has come back to Scotland, for everybody knows, they add, that England is ruled by the Scots.

GERMAN HOARDING

A food situation seems to be developing in Germany which, if true, needs to be looked into. Military reports from Munich represent Bavarian farmers as hoarding vast quantities of food, and selling other accumulations in the black market, while German city dwellers go hungry and blame it on the Americans who are supposed to be in control.

If this sort of thing is going on, it should be brought clearly to light, so that justice can be done and American procedures be improved. There are probably a good many well-intentioned American officials in Germany who don't realize how slick the Nazi Germans can be when they concentrate on their trickery. Shakespeare had a phrase for it—"cunning past man's thought."

The Disunited Nations seem to find it necessary to build up more and more armament—and what comes of that but more war?

So far as we've been able to observe, the animals have us licked on the housing problems.

One of these times we may get tired of what we quaintly call progress, and what then?

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 22—The papers have been carrying almost daily now a new mistake by the Democratic campaign leaders, but no one is mentioning much the big underlying mistake in which these incidents are only a reflection.

The all-consuming error has been the party has not been able to make up its mind whether it is running on the CIO ticket or its own. Or to put it another way, they could not decide whether to run their congressmen on their records or with emphasis on the Truman-CIO legislation which these congressmen have voted down, emasculated or hidden away (and by this reference I do mean the full employment bill, the unemployment compensation, etc.) Or to put it a third way, they cannot decide whether Truman is running this year, or whether congress is.

This is no exaggeration, as can be demonstrated by an analysis of the facts:

The Democratic magazine started the comedy of confusion by charging that a vote for the Case bill (a measure designed to do something fair and effective about strikes) was a vote against the people. Now an exuberant young lady reporter could have made this mistake, as the subsequent explanation from the national committee contended. She was fired. But she was only saying what the CIO-PAC wanted her to say, or would like to have her say. They were not fired.

Next, the national chairman Hannegan sent to his county chairmen the letter advising them to "select proper candidates" for congress—as if the ones they have running now for re-election are not good enough. No other interpretation was possible as it defined what a "proper" candidate was, namely one "who will courageously support President Truman's program of progress," and most of those running had opposed much of it. The official explanation of this mistake was that the letter went by error to Democratic counties, whereas it was intended only for those held by Republicans. This makes sense, but the "mistake" represented what the CIO wants, precisely. Here again, the affair presented CIO campaign hopes and plans exactly.

Then the third "mistake." The Democratic congressmen who naturally blame these troubles on Chairman Hannegan, called their meeting to do something to protect themselves, with results which have been reported. But in calling their meeting, they also made "the mistake" of inviting a couple of Republicans. This climax of errors (this time on the other side), aroused snickers and laughter all around Washington, and some friends of Mr. Hannegan were heard chuckling that he is not the only one who makes mistakes. But the point I wish to make, is that this "mistake" also served CIO-PAC.

So I say the trouble with the Democrats is fundamental. For one, I am credulous enough to accept one mistake, but three in a row like these are more than my reasonable mind can accept. And when I see all three serving the purposes of the CIO to defeat a congress which has been recalcitrant to their program, I know there is a basic underlying mistake.

In this instance it is apparent. I will have more on the subject in my column, later.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO EXTREME METHODS
THERE ARE two basic methods for the playing of the average suit contract. One is the elimination of losing cards by ruffing, and the other is the use of a side suit to furnish discards of losers. Usually a declarer must commit himself early to one plan or the other. Most hands are such that they must feature one of the two ways, to the exclusion of the alternative. Sometimes, however, a deal comes along on which the identical result may be obtained by either method. And if the game is duplicate, you will usually find both methods favored at different tables.

At several tables, a 5-Spade sacrifice was bid and set one trick, a good save. But the interesting contrast came at the 5-Hearts tables. Everybody in that contract made it, but with widely different play, following the lead of the spade Q to the A.

One chap, who likes to ruff out losers, led the club 5 to the second trick. East won and returned the spade K, which South ruffed with the heart 3. The club K won and the 4 was led. West came right in with the heart K and returned his heart 8 to limit dummy ruffs. The A took that and the club 7 was led. West discarded and the heart 4 ruffed the trick. The diamond K made an entry to lead the club 9 and ruff with the heart Q. The club losers now being all gone, the heart 9 was led to the 10, and the hand was finished by the last two hearts and the diamond J to the A.

Another heart declarer liked to set up a suit. So after winning the spade lead, he led to the heart A, put forth the heart 3, which West got with the K, and ruffed the returned spade. The heart 10 drew the last defense trump. Then the diamond K, diamond A and diamond 10 came, East covering with the Q and seeing South ruff. The club K was led to the A and the heart Q ruffed the returned club. The final three tricks were the established diamond 9, 8 and 4, for the same result the ruff got.

DIET AND HEALTH

Balanced Breakfasts

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WHAT kind of breakfast should you have? Big breakfast, little breakfast or none at all? This is not a question to be decided by an eeny-meeny-miny-mo. Nor is the answer to be found in personal preference.

There are definite considerations of health which show that every body needs a real and substantial meal on which to start the day.

Those who have studied the problem think that the breakfast should make up about one-fourth of the total food needs for the day. That means one-fourth of the calories or heat value, one-fourth of the protein, which is the material necessary for building new tissues and repairing worn-out ones, and one-fourth of the vitamins and minerals.

Omitting Breakfast
Some people get into the habit of omitting breakfast in an effort to lose weight but that is the wrong way of reducing weight. Their energy would be held up on a more even keel if they divided the food they eat among three meals a day rather than two.

If breakfast is skipped, the necessary food will have to be eaten at the other two meals in order to maintain health and well-being. Many persons who skip breakfast make the problem worse by grabbing a bite of whatever is handy for lunch and then making the evening meal supply practically all of the nutrients needed.

Balanced Diet
Planning a well-balanced diet with three meals a day is not a very difficult task if a few simple principles are followed, but the fewer the meals, the greater the danger that the food eaten will fall short of furnishing the needed proteins, vitamins and minerals.

Many people say that they just do not feel hungry at breakfast time. But in most instances, this is because they arise too late for breakfast and must hurry off to work or to keep some appointment. Very few persons skip breakfast if they go to bed early enough, arise in the morning at such a time as to give them a sufficient interval to dress, read the newspaper, and perhaps do a little work in the garden before starting the day's activities.

It is not astonishing that people who have eaten a heavy meal the night before and must be awakened in the morning have little desire to eat breakfast.

Six Foods
Breakfast can be planned from six food items, fruit, cereal, egg, toast with fortified margarine or butter, jam and a beverage which means milk for children.

In many ways, your body is like the engine of your car. It takes fuel in the form of food and transmutates it into energy, the energy which you use to accomplish your day's work. It is just as reasonable to expect your car to start on an empty tank as to suppose that your body can furnish energy for the morning's activities without proper food.

A good breakfast can work wonders in the way you feel. Try it and see how much it adds to your contentment and the ease with which you perform your forenoon tasks.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

WHEN I RETURNED to the living room a while later, still very green in the face and shaking all over, Inspector Barry's expression had softened considerably.

"Sorry I had to give you such a turn, Jane. Here, sit down and let's talk this over in comfort," he said in a fatherly tone, using my given name for the first time without the preceding "Miss" as he led me to the sofa and sat down beside me.

"I didn't do it. On my solemn oath I didn't," I told him, still in a daze.

"I never thought you did. You're too intelligent to sign your name to a murder," he assured me. "But you might have sent Woodford the caviar and someone else put the poison in it. Arsenic, it was."

I shook my head mutely, not daring to speak or meet the inspector's eyes for fear he'd read what I was thinking. Deane! I'd advised Deane in fun to bribe Polly with caviar.

And now he was dead—through caviar—I didn't know what to do. I hated to play informer and yet I couldn't keep quiet.

Then I remembered that Hunt knew. I'd told him. We'd laughed about it together. And so I said faintly: "Please, Hunt. You tell Inspector Barry."

He knew what I meant immediately and said: "All right, Jane," with an encouraging smile, and then told the inspector of the scene Deane had made after his departure on Tuesday, and of my ironical suggestion about the caviar. Interrupting himself now and then with a brief "That correct, Jane?" or "That's what you said, isn't it?"

and ending: "All of which may not mean a thing, of course. After all, Polly Woodford's passion for caviar was public knowledge, since it was ridiculed in the papers."

I was grateful to Hunt for those last words. And quickly added my bit: "That's right. It must be a plant just because it points so definitely to Deane. Why, signing MY name would have been almost as stupid as signing his own."

"Stupid, or very clever, to his way of thinking," Inspector Barry said dryly. "He might have figured we'd reason the way you are doing now. Where did you tell him to go for the caviar?"

"To the Maison Gourmet," I said unhappily. "But that was in the papers, too."

"See. Then maybe the murderer kept a clipping of it," the inspector remarked with open irony. "For that's where the poisoned stuff came from. All neatly packed in a vacuum bowl and with the note attached. By the way—it's being air-mailed here, and the handwriting may give us a clue." Then he got up and added: "Too bad I couldn't muzzle Chicago. All the afternoon papers will headline the murder on the Century."

The papers—more murder—and my name connected with it again! Directly, this time.

"Dita!" I said with a horrified gasp.

"Yes—your sister." Inspector Barry passed his hand through his hair worriedly. "I've been thinking of her. It's a heck of a note, all that publicity let loose again! You better do something about her, or old Mr. Pearce'll have my scalp."

"I'll call Elmpoint," Hunt volunteered, crossing the room toward Neal's quarters.

"Good. Tell Mrs. Pearce Jane's coming out tomorrow, regardless. That'll calm her more than anything else," the inspector called after him. "And tell her I'm bringing her myself, so long as you can't."

Hunt nodded and disappeared, and I gaped at the inspector. "Hunt can't? Why can't he?"

"Because he has more important things to do," I was told briefly. Then the inspector changed the subject: "Before I forget it, write a few sentences for me and sign your name to them. For comparison. You, too, Miss Claire. And get me a sample of the housekeeper's writing also."

We were still busy writing down silly, stereotyped phrases when Hunt came back from Neal's room. "Your sister's a marvel," he approved. "Cool as a cucumber. She asked me to tell you not to worry about her. She's coming to look on murder as a parlor game. And she'll be delighted to make your acquaintance, Inspector, and looks forward to meeting Valente. I didn't know you'd invited him, Jane."

"But I knew. He asked me if I'd object to his coming along," Inspector Barry answered for me, gathering up the samples of our writing. And then he prevented all further discussion of the matter by announcing, after a glance at his wrist watch: "It's about time to start for the inquest. Get ready, all of you, and let's go."

The inquest proved less upsetting than I'd expected. Perhaps because I was too numbed by the new tragedy to feel the full horror of the deed.

Before it started I met Margot's relatives: a brother and two sisters. But I must confess I wouldn't know them again and only remember their avid concern about the validity of Margot's last contract, and they didn't seem to care how or why she had died, so long as they profited by it.

Presently I was sworn in, and was on and off the witness stand before I had a chance of feeling scared or confused. Next I found myself sitting beside Claire, listening to Rosa's account of finding Margot's body, the reading of Polly's deposition—his murder wasn't mentioned—and the testimony of Tomio Valente and Deane. Deane acted less jittery in public than in private. And in no time at all the whole thing was over and we were driving back to the Lincolnfield.

When we trooped out of the elevator—Claire, Rosa and I, Inspector Barry, Hunt and a plain clothesman for good measure—the door of Polly's apartment burst open and Brenda ran out.

She was dressed in an extremely smart housecoat, but her hair was disheveled and her eyes red and swollen with weeping.

"Jane!" she called shakily, waving a newspaper at me. "Jane, did you read it?"

"I didn't know you'd moved in already," I told her irrelevantly. "Why yes—I came yesterday, just before Polly left. He wanted to see me settled," she explained in her breathless manner. "But have you read it? He's been murdered! Oh, Jane, it's too terrible! I'll have to—"

She broke off with a gasping sob, noticing at last that I was not alone, and stuttered, turning to go back to her apartment: "Oh—I—I didn't see the gentleman!"

"You know Dr. Berwick. This is Inspector Barry, Brenda. And this is Mrs. Knight, Inspector. She's sub-leased the Woodford apartment."

A flicker in the inspector's eyes showed me that Hunt had spoken to him about Brenda. But his behavior did not change.

He said politely: "Glad to know you, Mrs. Knight. Would you mind stepping into Miss Applebee's apartment with us for a moment? And—may I see that paper? I didn't know the Woodford murder news was already on the street."

Brenda handed him her paper and came along with us. Not gladly, I felt. And once she'd sat down in my living room she started to cry again silently, while the inspector stood in front of her, scanning the paper she'd given him without saying what was in it.

Foresee Cool Strike Continuing 3 Weeks

Hull in Retirement Working on Memoirs

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Best bet in Washington labor-management circles today is that the current coal strike will continue at least another three weeks.

Intervention of the government to try to bring about a settlement and get the miners back to work is considered a face-saving gesture in these circles, which are watching John L. Lewis intently for the next move.

President Truman still can seize the mines under the war powers act but will do so only in case of the gravest emergency in the opinion of these sources. The president is said to be content to let matters rock along in hope that a settlement will come about in a less drastic manner.

Lewis likewise is taking his time and the chief factor seems to be how long the miners will enjoy their vacation when the funds begin to run low at home.

● FORMER Secretary of State Cordell Hull could probably speak more interestingly on the present international situation than almost any of the statesmen now engaged in carrying it out. Instead he prefers to deal with the past.

Hull's reported consultations with Secretary of State James Byrnes and others have never been clarified and Hull is occupying himself almost entirely with preparation of his memoirs in a spacious Washington hotel suite.

Andrew Berding, veteran foreign correspondent who met Hull while covering the state department, takes the former secretary's memoirs in shorthand for three hours a day, transcribes his notes and starts research. In this he checks Hull's memory against official records for exact quotations, details and dates.

The two men are reported making good progress by this system in which Berding rewrites the day's product and checks back with Hull on the manuscript.

● GOVERNMENT FOOD OFFICIALS have long faces these days. Reason: The famine emergency committee, set up by President Truman to furnish food to hungry Europe and Asia, is falling behind in its program to obtain more than 200 million bushels of wheat by July 1.

Furthermore, officials are worried as to whether the committee will come even close to its goal in spite of the government's promotion campaign to wake up America to the plight of the starving abroad in the wake of war.

Farm sources point out that there is a shortage of grain, especially corn, and that although there is some extra wheat on farms, farmers will not let go of it. They make more money feeding the grain to livestock than they can by cash selling under present price ceilings on grain.

● POLITICAL OBSERVERS ARE CERTAIN that two key pieces of President Truman's "must" legislative program will drive a temporary wedge in the potent coalition of Republican midwesterners and southern Democrats in Congress.

These are the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan and the extension of the draft act.

On these two measures, at least, the conservatives of both parties, partners in many an administration-wrecking floor battle, are destined to part company.

The separation will not be on a solid front but on a majority front, lapping over here and there, but following an overall pattern. Southern senators generally are expected to line up behind giving a loan to Britain.

Their cotton export interests are at stake and they come from the pro-British south, where the population is top-heavy of Anglo-Saxon origin.

A majority of midwest Republicans is expected to fight the loan, which is expected to carry after a bitter floor battle. A somewhat similar division is expected on the draft.

HISTORIC STONE
HOW long should stolen property be held to make the taker's title valid? This question must have occurred to good Scots whenever British kings have been crowned, for at the ceremony the new king sits on the Stone of Destiny on which the ancient Scottish kings were crowned.
This stone, the Stone of Scone, is said to have been the pillow on which Jacob laid his head when he had his vision of the angels. However, it got to Scotland, it was used for royal coronations as far back as history goes. In 846 it was transferred to Scone, where it remained 450 years. In 1296 Edward I of England, who came near to conquering all Scotland, carried off the stone. Though the Scots recovered their independence, they never did get the stone back. It has been held in England ever since, except during the recent war, when its whereabouts were unknown. Its emergence from its wartime hiding-place has just been announced, and the record of its hiding has been deposited in the Canadian national archives.
The English have one justification, and the Scots one consolation, for its forcible transfer to English soil. In 1603 the royal houses of the two countries were merged, and in 1707 complete union was established. The Scots can therefore say that it has come back to Scotland, for everybody knows, they add, that England is ruled by the Scots.

GERMAN HOARDING
A food situation seems to be developing in Germany which, if true, needs to be looked into. Military reports from Munich represent Bavarian farmers as hoarding vast quantities of food, and selling other accumulations in the black market, while German city dwellers go hungry and blame it on the Americans who are supposed to be in control.
If this sort of thing is going on, it should be brought clearly to light, so that justice can be done and American procedures be improved. There are probably a good many well-intentioned American officials in Germany who don't realize how slick the Nazi Germans can be when they concentrate on their trickery. Shakespeare had a phrase for it—"cunning past man's thought."

The Disunited Nations seem to find it necessary to build up more and more armament—and what comes of that but more war?

So far as we've been able to observe, the animals have us licked on the housing problems.

One of these times we may get tired of what we quaintly call progress, and what then?

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 22—The papers have been carrying almost daily now a new mistake by the Democratic campaign leaders, but no one is mentioning much the big underlying mistake in which these incidents are only a reflection.

The all-consuming error has been the party has not been able to make up its mind whether it is running on the CIO ticket or its own. Or to put it another way, they could not decide whether to run their congressmen on their records or with emphasis on the Truman-CIO legislation which these congressmen have voted down, emasculated or hidden away (and by this reference I do mean the full employment bill, the unemployment compensation, etc.) Or to put it a third way, they cannot decide whether Truman is running this year, or whether congress is.

This is no exaggeration, as can be demonstrated by an analysis of the facts:
The Democratic magazine started the comedy of confusion by charging that a vote for the Case bill (a measure designed to do something fair and effective about strikes) was a vote against the people. Now an exuberant young lady reporter could have made this mistake, as the subsequent explanation from the national committee contended. She was fired. But she was only saying what the CIO-PAC wanted her to say, or would like to have her say. They were not fired.

Next, the national chairman Hannegan sent to his county chairmen the letter advising them to "select proper candidates" for congress—as if the ones they have running now for re-election are not good enough. No other interpretation was possible as it defined what a "proper" candidate was, namely one "who will courageously support President Truman's program of progress," and most of those running had opposed much of it. The official explanation of this mistake was that the letter went by error to Democratic counties, whereas it was intended only for those held by Republicans. This makes sense, but the "mistake" represented what the CIO wants, precisely. Here again, the affair presented CIO campaign hopes and plans exactly.

Then the third "mistake." The Democratic congressmen who naturally blame these troubles on Chairman Hannegan, called their meeting to do something to protect themselves, with results which have been reported. But in calling their meeting, they also made "the mistake" of inviting a couple of Republicans. This climax of errors (this time on the other side), aroused snickers and laughter all around Washington, and some friends of Mr. Hannegan were heard chuckling that he is not the only one who makes mistakes. But the point I wish to make, is that this "mistake" also served CIO-PAC.

So I say the trouble with the Democrats is fundamental. For one, I am credulous enough to accept one mistake, but three in a row like these are more than my reasonable mind can accept. And when I see all three serving the purposes of the CIO to defeat a congress which has been recalcitrant to their program, I know there is a basic underlying mistake.

In this instance it is apparent. I will have more on the subject in my column, later.

TWO EXTREME METHODS
THERE ARE two basic methods for the playing of the average suit contract. One is the elimination of losing cards by ruffing, and the other is the use of a side suit to furnish discards of losers. Usually a declarer must commit himself early to one plan or the other. Most hands are such that they must feature one of the two ways, to the exclusion of the alternative. Sometimes, however, a deal comes along on which the identical result may be obtained by either method. And if the game is duplicate, you will usually find both methods favored at different tables.

DIET AND HEALTH
Balanced Breakfasts

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WHAT kind of breakfast should you have? Big breakfast, little breakfast or none at all? This is not a question to be decided by a penny-meaty-meaty-meat. Nor is the answer to be found in personal preference.
There are definite considerations of health which show that everybody needs a real and substantial meal on which to start the day.
Those who have studied the problem think that the breakfast should make up about one-fourth of the total food needs for the day. That means one-fourth of the calories or heat value, one-fourth of the protein, which is the material necessary for building new tissues and repairing worn-out ones, and one-fourth of the vitamins and minerals.
Omitting Breakfast
Some people get into the habit of omitting breakfast in an effort to lose weight but that is the wrong way of reducing weight. Their energy would be held up on a more even keel if they divided the food they eat among three meals a day rather than two.
If breakfast is skipped, the necessary food will have to be eaten at the other two meals in order to maintain health and well-being. Many persons who skip breakfast make the problem worse by grabbing a bite of whatever is handy for lunch and then making the evening meal supply practically all of the nutrients needed.
Balanced Diet
Planning a well-balanced diet with three meals a day is not a

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
WHEN I RETURNED to the living room a while later, still very green in the face and shaking all over, Inspector Barry's expression had softened considerably.
"Sorry I had to give you such a turn, Jane. Here, sit down and let's talk this over in comfort," he said in a fatherly tone, using my given name for the first time without the preceding "Miss" as he led me to the sofa and sat down beside me.
"I didn't do it. On my solemn oath I didn't," I told him, still in a daze.
"I never thought you did. You're too intelligent to sign your name to a murder," he assured me. "But you might have sent Woodford's caviar and someone else put the poison in it, Arsenic, it was."

Mrs. Bissell Installed As Treasurer of DAC

Mrs. B. A. Schadel Is Speaker At Meeting

Mrs. William C. Bissell, East Main street, was installed as treasurer of the Colonel William Ball chapter, National Society of Daughters of the American Colonists, at a luncheon meeting Saturday, held at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hodge, Mechanicsburg. Mrs. David Pittenger was the assistant hostess.

Other officers installed at this meeting include Mrs. O. W. Finley, regent, Mt. Sterling; Miss Valeria Gostwick, vice regent, Columbus; Mrs. Ambrose Wilt, chaplain; Mrs. John F. Zahn, recording secretary; Mrs. B. A. Schadel, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert H. Trimble, registrar; Miss Dheil Renick, Jackson township, historian; Mrs. Willis Jones, Columbus, librarian.

Mrs. B. A. Schadel gave a paper on, "Native Foods Used by the Colonists." She said that during the early days of the colonies women had to learn tempting ways in which to cook very plain fare. Many of them had brought with them from England the quaint cook books of the period, as well as cherished seeds and herbs grown in the gardens of their home land. Cakes were often the crowning dish of the meal and housewives recipes for them.

Our kind of pie was born in Saxony and improved by the Pennsylvania Dutch where it was and still is very often eaten for breakfast. The Indians deserve the credit for many of our foods of today such as corn, maize, and potatoes. Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the cultivation of the potato in Virginia as early as 1584. Rice was brought from Madagascar and planted in the colonies during the 17th century.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

NEW SINGLE COSMOS "SENSATION"

NEW DOUBLE COSMOS "SENSATION"

New Cosmos for New Beauty in Your Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

NEW BEAUTY blooms for your garden to help you forget the strain of war-time are provided by new cosmos, single and double.

These improved flowers, illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, are called "Sensation"—and, both live up to the name.

Sensation, in the single variety, will be welcomed by the busy home gardener for it will produce loads of blooms and requires little attention.

Cosmos double Sensation is also a prolific bloomer and produces splendid double flowers, some with crested centers, others attractively duted.

Cosmos, although beautiful in their own right, are almost a utility plant for the flower garden. They can be planted in rows, or for background effects with other annuals, or as color masses in the perennial planting or shrub border.

Sow cosmos seed in a cold-frame or in the open ground, and set the plants 18 to 24 inches apart. If exposed to wind, plants, with room to develop, will need strong staking.

Cosmos thrive in almost any kind of soil. They tolerate partial shade, but grow best in full sun. If the seedlings become spindly, pinch them back or transplant them several times.

Late flowering varieties of cosmos often grow five feet or more in height and do not bloom until September, therefore, in regions where frosts come early it will be safer to grow the early-blooming types, including the new single or double Sensation.

SAFETY GROUP SUGGESTS WOMEN OBSERVE RULES

Swing into your Spring housecleaning, Mrs. Housewife—but don't put yourself on the shelf. You know, tripping and falling are two hazards which delight in teaming-up with Spring cleaning. So, here are some slip-proof suggestions from Mrs. Dorothy B. Hammans, Vice President for Home Safety, of the Ohio State Safety Council, to keep you ON your feet:

Be sure to use a sturdy ladder—and not a makeshift chair—to reach those high places. Also be sure that ladder is in good repair with no cracked or missing steps. And if you're waxing floors, rub the wax in thoroughly to prevent slipperiness.

When you're going up and down stairs, keep one hand free, in case you suddenly need it. Especially don't carry a load so high that you can't see where you're going—or where the next step is. And when that happy time comes to put the furniture back in place, arrange the furniture to allow straight clear passageways to the door.

Falls in Ohio homes cause an average of 1,000 deaths each year, and this is a good time to make sure your home has no falling hazards—no cluttered passageways—no trailing electric light cords. When you're through cleaning, remember to put brooms and buckets away, so they won't trip someone else. Now that it's Spring, out-law falls in your family.

What Can YOU DO To Get More Soap?

YOU CAN DREAM about the oceans of the soap and soap powders you need so badly...and let the facts that help make them dribble down the drain. Some day, sure, you'll get more soap. But when?

Not until the country's industrial fat supply has been built up tremendously. Right now, it is at a record low.

Suppose, though, you want soap to come back to the counter sooner...what can you do?

YOU CAN SAVE your used fats...just as carefully as during the war. There's more meat now...more fat to save...so it's lots easier. You American housewives are already turning in a healthy share of our present industrial fat supply. If you slacken up, naturally there'll be less fats. And less fats mean less soap, less of all peacetime products. So keep saving. You get 4¢ for every pound...and every pound makes about two pounds of the soap you need!

Where there's fat—there's soap

And when that happy time comes to put the furniture back in place, arrange the furniture to allow straight clear passageways to the door.

Falls in Ohio homes cause an average of 1,000 deaths each year, and this is a good time to make sure your home has no falling hazards—no cluttered passageways—no trailing electric light cords. When you're through cleaning, remember to put brooms and buckets away, so they won't trip someone else. Now that it's Spring, out-law falls in your family.

What Can YOU DO To Get More Soap?

YOU CAN DREAM about the oceans of soap and soap powders you need so badly—and let the facts that help make them dribble down the drain. Some day, sure, you'll get more soap. But when?

Not until the country's industrial fat supply has been built up tremendously. Right now, it is at a record low.

Suppose, though, you want soap to come back to the counter sooner—what can you do?

YOU CAN SAVE your used fats... just as carefully as during the war. There's more meat now... more fat to save... so it's lots easier. You American housewives are already turning in a healthy share of our present industrial fat supply. If you slacken up, naturally there'll be less fats. And less fats mean less soap, less of all peacetime products. So keep saving. You get 4¢ for every pound... and every pound makes about two pounds of the soaps you need!

Where there's fat—there's soap

SPOTLIGHT BANDS
Take a song by lovely Rose Marie Lombardo, add a romantic vocal by handsome Don Rodney, mix well with a variety of top flight arrangements of tip-top tunes and it adds up to the sparkling musical cocktail served up by Guy Lombardo on his regular weekly appearance on "Spotlight Bands" Monday, (8:30 to 10 p. m., EST) from Mutual's Chicago studios. Rose Marie Lombardo declares she's "Laughing on the Outside," while Don Rodney proclaims his love "Day by Day." "Money is the Root of All Evil," "Pagan Love Song," "Atlanta G. A." and "Liza" will all receive instrumental treatment by the full band. The Spotlight "tune of the week," "Shoo Fly Pie," has been selected by the Royal Canadian's maestro, and the tune will receive the Lombardo treatment at this time. "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," "Night and Day," "Gypsy," "Personality" and "Easy to Love" round out the "Spotlight" program.

broadcast. Loretta Young will be heard as "Singleton," an elfin-spirited, sensitive young girl who falls in love with a series of letters. Joseph Cotten takes the role of Alan Quinton, soldier who writes them for his friend while overseas. When Alan meets Singleton she is an amnesiac and has just served a year in prison for murder of her husband. He falls in love with her, and they are married. Their marriage is very happy though Alan dreads the day when she will remember the past and come to hate him for ghosting the letters, and Singleton is haunted by her loss of memory. "Love Letters" reaches a dramatic peak of suspense and emotion in its conclusion.

VOX POP
Vox Pop, Parks Johnson and Warren Hull will start their Summer vacation after the Monday broadcast at 8 p. m., EST, over CBS, which will be the concluding program in the five-year series for Bromo-Seltzer. Vox Pop is coming back on a major network early in the Fall with a new sponsor. Thus, another chapter in the long run of radio's original interview program will close, with a new Vox Pop era beginning in the fall for the program that eed of in 1932 as a sidewalk quiz, graduated in 1935 to network stature pioneering a new kind of air entertainment, and grew up, pacing its imitators, into a class by itself. Vox Pop came "the show that travels America" with its own domestic good-neighbor policy--a weekly slice of American life--the voice of the people from coast to coast.

BULLDOG DRUMMOND
It was just a trip on a train, but oh, what it turned out to be, and Bulldog Drummond and Denny are catapulted into "The Case of the Frightened Secretary" during "The Adventures of Bulldog Drummond," Monday, (8 to 8:30 p. m., EST), over Mutual. The hard-hitting sleuth keeps a careful eye on some fellow travelers with shady backgrounds, and when a murder results he isn't too surprised.

SHERLOCK HOLMES
The appearance of two young guests at a dinner party given by Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson lead to one of London's strangest and most baffling crimes, during "The Tinkerville Club Scandal," to be heard on "The New Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," Monday, (8:30 to 9 p. m., EST) over Mutual. Basil Rathbone, in the role of the Baker Street detective, makes some startling discoveries during the course of a card game and they ultimately lead him to the trail of the culprits. Nigel Bruce plays the role of the blustering Dr. Watson.

BOB HAWK
Bob Hawk offers jokes to his fans and smokes to men in service hospitals on the Bob Hawk Show, Monday, at 7:30 p. m. Free cigarettes will be forwarded to U. S. Army Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta, Ga., U. S. Naval Hospital, Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif., U. S. Marine Hospital, Neponset Beach, N. Y., and Veterans Hospitals in Marion, Ind., and Albuquerque, N. M. Music is by Peter Van Steeden's orchestra.

FRED WARING SHOW
On the anniversary of the birthday of William Shakespeare, Tuesday, the Fred Waring Show pays tribute to the immortal bard in the broadcast at 11 a. m. Don Craig and Bill Bivens prove to Waring and the Pennsylvanians that Shakespeare was really a regular guy called "Bill" by his friends, and by way of proof that Bill was "in the know," they introduce each number with a Shakespearean quotation.

GENTLE JULIE

A glamorous addition to Mutual's novel "Quick As A Flash" broadcast Sunday is lovely Julie Stevens, versatile actress who runs the gamut of roles from ingenue to gangster's moll on radio's daily schedule of dramatic shows.

CROWDS ATTEND SERVICES AT LOCAL CHURCHES

High Of 72 Recorded While Bright Sun Shines On Easter Parades

In observance of the first post-war Easter many Circleville and Pickaway county worshippers Sunday attended church services. Many other residents of the city and county sought relaxation in motoring, fishing excursions, and in other outdoor activities.

While the annual Easter parade was not so gorgeous as in some former years the marchers promanaded in many-hued Spring finery. There was a very noticeable decrease in the number of uniforms of the nation's armed services—for the first time in five years.

The weather was ideal throughout the day, with cloudless skies and a high temperature of 72 degrees.

The anniversary of the resurrection of The Saviour was celebrated with appropriate religious rites. Virtually all of the churches had arranged special services. In many churches the services began at sunrise. Rites in the various churches took place through the morning and in the evening.

The church attendance was very good.

At the First Methodist church there was an Easter sermon by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen, with special music, following an early morning Easter sunrise service sponsored by the Youth Fellowship.

Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. opened the Easter observance at St. Philip's Episcopal church. The Rev. L. C. Sherburne delivered his sermon at 10:30 a. m.

At the Church of the Nazarene the sermon subject was "Our Risen Lord." The evening service was featured by a pageant entitled "As It Began to Dawn."

At the Church of Christ in Christian Union the holiday program included a sunrise service, Sunday school, morning worship and infant baptism, and an evening pageant.

Four Easter services were conducted at the First United Brethren church. They began with a sunrise service. At the morning worship period the Rev. Carl L. Wilson's sermon theme was "The Message of the Open Tomb." He delivered a second sermon in the evening.

Easter worship at the Trinity Lutheran church included baptism and a short communion service. The Rev. George L. Troutman's sermon was on the topic "Easter Joy."

"The Resurrection at the Crucifixion" was the subject of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy on Easter morning in the Presbyterian church. The program included special music and singing. The Rev. Kennedy performed the sacrament of baptism for several infants.

Sunrise service began the day's services at the Church of the Brethren. The Easter story was dramatized by the young people.

Special services marked the day's worship at the Pilgrim church the Rev. Frank Hunter, a radio singer, taught the Sunday school lesson.

Scoto Commandery, Knights Templar, attended in a body the morning services in the Calvary Evangelical church. The sermon topic of the Rev. B. F. Borcoman was "Resurrection Significance." The program included special music.

Puffballs, the small fungi seen on lawns in midsummer, sometimes grow to a circumference of four or five feet, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Some of these puffballs weigh more than 15 pounds.

After Easter—What?

BY REV. CARL L. KENNEDY

"It was glorious! 'It was inspiring!' 'It was the most beautiful service we have ever attended!' Undoubtedly, such are the echoes of many voices, still reverberating, following the great day when we celebrated the resurrection from the dead of our Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Easter was very much in the news last week, what with special church services in every sanctuary across the breadth of the land, and in our own fair little town. Through the beauty and the simplicity of these hours of worship, through the earnest and hard-working endeavors of pastors and people, many souls were won to the Church of Christ, and many more Christians re-dedicated their hearts to a fuller service in the Kingdom of God. That is as it should be.

What then? Was the Eastertide and the Holy Day itself an end? Or was it a beginning? Asked Paul of the Romans (6:15)—"What then? shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace? God forbid!"

There is a clause in the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, which is translated into English to read, "In the fires of returning Spring your Winter garment of repentance fling."

It concerns every thoughtful person, as it does me, a least some Christians take the same attitude as the ancient, licentious, agnostic poet. It seems that shortly after Easter is a likely time for people to loosen moral restraints. Once I heard a person who had religiously refrained from eating sweets during the weeks of Lent, exclaim, "Oh boy! I can eat pie now!" It wouldn't be surprising if there were not those who were to take this attitude toward other things of a more serious nature. Eastertide is past, the restraint is over, "the lid is off," so some folks will feel that they are at liberty to "cut loose."

Let us beware that, having seen Christ raised from the dead, we do not immediately crucify Him again.

We shall re-crucify Him unless we follow up our shouts of praise and joy, our pious exclamations of "what a beautiful service; what a stirring sermon; what heavenly music!"—with a very expressive type of down-to-earth, rolled-up sleeves, dirty-hands service in the new life that Christ died in order that we might have.

After the paeans of praise die on our lips, and after the heavenly truths about the angel-in-white, the rolled-away stone, the astonished Magdala, the running Peter and John—after all these are but dimly remembered—then comes the real proof of the resurrection. Questions such as these must be honestly faced and as honestly answered: "Have I felt the true power of the resurrection? Have I forsaken my un-Christlike habits? Will I really give up that sin that I have loved so? Do I now, after I think about it more—do I actually intend to offer my services as a teacher in the Church School; will I say 'Yes' to the pastor's urgent request that I accept a position as an officer in my church? Will I not only pledge my money this year, but will I pledge more than I gave last year, because the tremendous truths have been so vividly brought home to me, that men and women, and little boys and girls are starving in Europe and in Asia? I wonder if I shall actually try to attend my church every Sunday, Easter was wonderful, glorious, thrilling, but now..."

The Soil Conservation Service is cooperating with the statewide movement to promote soil, water, forest and wildlife conservation, sponsored by Governor Lausche, and Pickaway county is prominently identified with this important movement through its local agency, the Pickaway Soil Conservation District, according to James A. The conservation of the state's principal resources; soil, water, forests and wildlife is no more vigorously promoted than through the soil conservation districts, especially set up by both national and state governments for the purpose.

"This is no mere publicity campaign" states Muster, who calls attention to the fact that the Soil Conservation District since the first of the year, has been working on Pickaway county farms every day. During the brief time the work has been going on in Pickaway county, more than thirty farms have applied for assistance involving nearly 7,000 acres of farm land.

During the first two months of the year, applications for conservation farm plans were received from Ralph E. May, Lawrence R. Liston, Wayne F. Brown, Steward E. Beers, William J. Barthelmas, Joseph C. Peters and Luther M. LaRue, involving 1362 acres of farm land. Additional applications are being urged.

Muster urges that Pickaway county farmers file their applications early, so that plans may be completed in time to inaugurate revised cropping patterns before another season's cropping decisions are made. The office is open Fridays in Circleville, Room 8, Pythian Castle.

NEW PROGRAM TO RE-ENLIST WACS IS ANNOUNCED

Honorably discharged Wacs who desire to re-enter the Corps for overseas duty in the European Theatre of Operations must have their applications filed with their local U. S. Army Recruiting Station by midnight, Thursday, April 25, the War Department announced.

Since this contingent of Wacs is due to leave shortly after May 1, former Wacs and those still in service who enlist for overseas in the recently announced "interim" for the duration and six months, are required to have their papers processed immediately.

The European Theatre of Operations has requisitioned the War Department for enlisted Wacs in five specialist categories. The military occupational specialty skills stenographers, clerk-typists, general clerks, telephone switchboard operators, and teletype operators.

The new program to re-enlist honorably discharged Wacs is intended to assist in getting men home from overseas who have served long and arduously. The enlisted grade held at the time of discharge will be restored upon re-enlistment.

Honorably discharged Wacs who desire to re-enter the Corps for overseas duty in the European Theatre of Operations must have their applications filed with their local U. S. Army Recruiting Station by midnight, Thursday, April 25, the War Department announced.

Since this contingent of Wacs is due to leave shortly after May 1, former Wacs and those still in service who enlist for overseas in the recently announced "interim" for the duration and six months, are required to have their papers processed immediately.

The European Theatre of Operations has requisitioned the War Department for enlisted Wacs in five specialist categories. The military occupational specialty skills include stenographers, clerk-typists, general clerks, telephone switchboard operators, and teletype operators.

The new program to re-enlist honorably discharged Wacs is intended to assist in getting men home from overseas who have served long and arduously. The enlisted grade held at the time of discharge will be restored upon re-enlistment.

General Electric Co. engineers declare that the recent record-smashing cross-country flight of three jet-propelled P-80 planes, averaging nearly 600 miles an hour, proves conclusively that the new gas turbine will be able to propel large civilian transport aircraft of the future at similar lightning-like speeds over long distances.

The American clipper sled can coast faster than 70 miles per hour, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. The passenger lies flat on the sled in a "belly-flop" position. He wears spiked shoes and uses his feet for both steering and braking.
